Melanie's Thoughts

Melanie Wait
Principal

NAPLAN

Last week students in Year 3, 5, 7 and 9 sat their NAPLAN tests. We would like to congratulate all of our students who participated in these tests. All staff involved were impressed with the way the students gave their best effort.

HOW2Learn

We are continuing to embed the HOW2Learn (Higher Order Ways 2 Learn) in classroom practice. The focus of HOW2Learn is to develop learning skills to support students in their life long learning.

There are 5 learning dispositions and each have their own learning habits.

The dispositions are:

- Resilience,
- Resourcefulness
- Reciprocity
- Reflectiveness
- Responsibility

It also involves talking about the learning process with our students so they understand that learning isn't easy and that persistence is necessary. At the beginning learning is hard, but if you keep trying things will get easier until you master the skills.

We also are looking at the type of feedback that we give to students. The focus is on praising the effort and focusing directly on the skill being performed, eg I like the way you ..... Research has shown if we use praise that talks about the child directly eg clever girl, when the learning gets hard some learners are less like to have a go because they don't want to be seen as not able to do something.

Teachers are also focusing on feeding forward, when giving feedback praising what has been done but then giving a suggestion of what to do next to keep improving, eg I like the way you sounded that word out, try that strategy when sounding this word out as well.

PSSA Netball team ready to compete at Griffith.

Merit Scheme

To reward our students' positive behaviour Tooleybuc Central School runs a strong Merit Scheme. Students are awarded 'Merit Awards' during the school year and an accumulation of these merits equates to levels.

Bronze Level 10 Merits
Silver Level Bronze plus and extra 20 Merits
Gold Level Silver plus an extra 30 Merits.

Primary students are given a 'Lucky Dip' at the achievement of each level. Then they are presented with a certificate at our Whole School Assembly. Secondary students with the highest GEM score in each class receive the Student Of The Fortnight on Assembly. Those students who achieve Gold Level or the correct GEM average are invited to attend our End of Year Merit Excursion.

Exams

Good luck to our students in Years 7-10 who will undertake their Half Yearly Examinations during Week 5. Hopefully they have been revising their learning and preparing for these of the past few weeks.

Lunchtime Sports

Competition for the ball between Jack and Dallas.

Stage 6 Interviews

Ms Wait has started to conduct our Stage 6 Term 2 interviews. There are a number of students who still need to make an appointment with Ms Wait to complete these in the next week.

Music and Lote

Leeta Rutherford (Music & Lote Teacher)

Music

We have started exploring how music is used in films, television and advertisements. The students will work towards creating their own soundtracks for a chosen advertisement - I know they can't wait to try and do this. Currently the students are supposed to be watching some advertisements to collect information to discuss in class next week.

LOTE

We been continuing with our study of Traditional Tales recorded by the Brothers' Grimm. Students should have been practising at home the twenty vocabulary words which they will be tested on in Week 5 and 6.

The Three Feathers

There was once on a time a King who had three sons, of whom two were clever and wise, but the third did not speak much, and was simple, and was called the Simpleton. When the King had become old and weak, and was thinking of his end, he did not know which of his sons should inherit the kingdom after him. Then he said to them: "Go forth, and he who brings me the most beautiful carpet shall be King after my death." And that there should be no dispute amongst them, he took them outside his castle, blew three feathers in the air, and said: "You shall go as they fly." One feather flew to the east, the other to the west, but the third flew straight up and did not fly far, but soon fell to the ground. And now one brother went to the right, and the other to the left, and they mocked Simpleton, who was forced to stay where the third feather had fallen. He sat down and was sad, then all at once he saw that there was a trap-door close by the feather. He raised it up, found some steps, and went down them, and then he came to another door, knocked at it, and heard somebody inside calling:

"Little green maiden small, Hopping, Hopping hither and thither; Hop to the door, And quickly see who is there."

The door opened, and he saw a great, fat toad sitting, and round about her a crowd of little toads. The fat toad asked what he wanted? He answered: "I should like to have the prettiest and finest carpet in the world." Then she called a young one and said:

"Little green maiden small, Hopping, Hopping hither and thither, Hop quickly and bring me The great box here."

The young toad brought the box, and the fat toad opened it, and gave Simpleton a carpet out of it, so beautiful and so fine, that on the earth above, none could have been woven like it. Then he thanked her, and ascended again.

The two others had, however, looked on their youngest brother as so stupid that they believed he would find and bring nothing at all. "Why should we give ourselves a great deal of trouble to search?" said they, and got some coarse handkerchiefs from the first shepherds' wives whom they met, and carried them home to the King. At the same time Simpleton also came back, and brought his beautiful carpet, and when the King saw it he was astonished, and said: "If justice be done, the kingdom belongs to the youngest." But the two others let their father have no peace, and said that it was impossible that Simpleton, who in everything lacked understanding, should be King, and entreated him to make a new agreement with them. Then the father said: "He who brings me the most beautiful ring shall inherit the kingdom," and led the three brothers out, and blew into the air three feathers, which they were to follow. Those of the two eldest again went east and west, and Simpleton's feather flew straight up, and fell down near the door into the earth. Then he went down again to the fat toad, and told her that he wanted the most beautiful ring. She at once ordered her great box to be brought, and gave him a ring out of it, which sparkled with jewels, and was so beautiful that no goldsmith on earth would have been able to make it. The two eldest laughed at Simpleton for going to seek a golden ring. They gave themselves no trouble, but knocked the nails out of an old carriage-ring, and took it to the King; but when Simpleton produced his golden ring, his father again said, "The kingdom belongs to him." The two eldest did not cease from tormenting the King until he made a third condition, and declared that the one who brought the most beautiful woman home, should have the kingdom. He again blew the three feathers into the air, and they flew as before.

Then Simpleton without more ado went down to the fat toad, and said: "I am to take home the most beautiful woman!" - "Oh," answered the toad, "the most beautiful woman! She is not at hand at the moment, but still thou shalt have her." She gave him a yellow turnip which had been hollowed out, to which six mice were harnessed. Then Simpleton said quite mournfully: "What am I to do with that?" The toad answered: "Just put one of my little toads into it. Then he seized one at random out of the circle, and put her into the yellow coach, but hardly was she seated inside it than she turned into a wonderfully beautiful maiden, and the turnip into a coach, and the six mice into horses. So he kissed her, and drove off quickly with the horses, and took her to the King. His brothers came afterwards; they had given themselves no trouble at all to seek beautiful girls, but had brought with them the first peasant women they chanced to meet. When the King saw them he said: "After my death the kingdom belongs to my youngest son." But the two eldest deafened the King's ears afresh with their clamour, "We cannot consent to Simpleton's being King," and demanded that the one whose wife could leap through a ring which hung in the centre of the hall should have the preference. They thought: "The peasant women can do that easily; they are strong enough, but the delicate maiden will jump herself to death." The aged King agreed likewise to this. Then the two peasant women jumped, and jumped through the ring, but were so stout that they fell, and their coarse arms and legs broke in two. And then the pretty maiden whom Simpleton had brought with him, sprang, and sprang through as lightly as a deer, and all opposition had to cease. So he received the crown, and has ruled wisely for a length of time.

COMMUNITY ENCOURAGED TO ATTEND WATER WORKSHOPS

Wakool Shire Council is encouraging community members to be involved in upcoming Water Community Workshops, to be held across the Shire this month.

The workshops are part of a research project by the Murray Darling Basin Authority and are being facilitated by Dr Michael Fortunato from Sam Houston State University in Texas. The project is aimed at improving community adaptability to water management changes through effective community driven engagement and planning.

Wakool Shire Council has been chosen to take part in the research project along with three regional areas in Australia – St George/Dirranbandi in Queensland and Coleambally and Warren in New South Wales.

As part of the project, Dr Fortunato will conduct a series of workshops with community and industry leaders in the Basin, including at towns across Wakool Shire from the 9 to 23 May.

The workshops will discuss the challenges and changes facing rural towns and provide an opportunity for people from different sectors to share knowledge and work together on a plan to adapt to and manage change. This includes reduced water availability as a result of climate change, drought and water reform.

Community workshops will be held at Barham, Moulamein, Wakool, Murray Downs and Tooleybuc on the following dates:

Barham/Wakool

Monday 9 May, 6pm cluBarham Auditorium and:
